Technique & Format

In a world of dating apps and hookup culture two university students are on a journey to fall in love before the end of the world, unknowingly having a crush on one another.

Logline

Cici and David have been friends since freshman year in high school. it is now their senior year in college and their love life hasn't gotten any better. World tensions have been raising but that did not stop cheating boyfriends and horrible tinder dates from disappointing Cici.

David on the other hand has had too many ghosted messages and plenty of cancelled dates even near the end of the world. As the threat of nuclear war becomes more evident, Cici and David compose a plan to fall in love before all hell breaks loose. Juggling bad world news, survival plans, and meeting new strangers they uncover the truth that has been there all along...the unconnected pieces have finally fallen into place. They are in love with each other.

Synopsis

Inspiration

Cecilia aka Cici is a 21 year old student at Star University!

One of the top accredited science universities in the United States. She was on her way to graduate with a Bachelors in Nuclear Physics and had secured an internship at The National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) until the bomb dropped a day before graduation.

She never had any luck in her love life before the apocalypse especially with her ex cheating on her the day nuclear war was announced. She certainly does not have it now that half of the population has been wiped.

At least she has David who has been her best friend since high school, ( and is definitely in denial of her feelings for him)

David would describe her as stubborn, determined, intelligent and most importantly loyal to her loved ones.

Cici

David is a 22 year old student at Star University One of the top accredited science universities in the United States. He was on his way to graduate with a MD (medical doctor) degree until the bomb dropped a day before graduation.

David never had any luck in his love life before the apocalypse, he spent most of his days studying to become a doctor. Even when he made an effort and joined the “unconnected” app that promised love before the nuclear bomb hit it was an utter fail.

Now that the world is in ashes he only has cici by his side, can he finally admit his love for his best friend?

Cici would describe him as observant, shy, caring and most importantly hopeful in spite of the chaos.
